Carpet of Flowers Brussels

Every two years, during the third week of August, Belgian Begonia cultivators decorate the Market Place with over 800,000 begonias, leaving no cobble exposed transforming the square into a stunning floral fresco. The vibrant colours in the ancient surroundings of the Grand Place make a striking display, which really must be seen to be believed.

The coloured plant tapestry can be best admired from the balcony of the City Hall, which is open to the public for the occasion.
